

federal budget in Fiscal Year 2002, revised his budget.

(3) The President said on June 13, 1995, and on numerous subsequent occasions, that this revised budget would balance the federal budget in Fiscal Year 2005.

(4) The President's revised budget, like the budget he submitted to Congress on February 6, 1995, took into account surpluses in the Old Age, Survivors and Disability Insurance (OASDI) trust funds in calculating the deficit.

(5) President Clinton, in his address before a joint session of Congress on February 17, 1993, stated that he was "using the independent numbers of the Congressional Budget Office" because "the Congressional Budget Office was normally more conservative in what was going to happen and closer to right than previous Presidents have been."

(6) President Clinton further stated: "Let's at least argue about the same set of numbers, so the American people will think we're shooting straight with them."

(7) The Congressional Budget Office estimated that the President's revised budget would achieve savings of $128 billion in Medicare through 2002 and $295 billion through 2005.

(8) The Congressional Budget Office estimated that the President's revised budget would achieve savings of $54 billion in federal Medicaid spending through 2002 and $105 billion through 2005.

(9) The President has proposed savings of $64 billion in "non-health entitlements by 2002 by reforming welfare, farm and other programs."

(10) The Congressional Budget Office estimated that the President's revised budget includes proposals that would reduce federal revenues by $97 billion over seven years and $166 billion over ten years.

(11) These proposed tax reductions are more than offset by the President's proposed Medicare savings.

(12) The Congressional Budget Office has determined that enactment of the President's proposal would result in deficits in excess of $200 billion in each of fiscal years 1997 through 2005.

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that Congress shall enact the President's budget as revised on June 13, 1995.
